2. INTRODUCTION

Alternative dispute resolution mechanisms were introduced formally in King III and as a result, resolving disputes effectively has gained increased importance. Moreover, relationships are a form of capital on which all organisations rely. Therefore, a dispute resolution process, at QuickTrade, is regarded as an opportunity not only to resolve the dispute, query or dissatisfaction at hand, but also to maintain and enhance the social and relationship capital in the organisation.

The purpose of this document is to ensure that our clients are aware of their rights and protections as they relate to complaints, disputes, queries or dissatisfaction.

There are three potential types of complaints/dissatisfactions which a client may raise in terms of our business:

- A query related to either products or service: This is deemed as an enquiry rather than an expression of dissatisfaction.

For example, “why was my position closed before I instructed to do so?”

- A complaint related to the conduct of QuickTrade or any of its staff members: This is an instance where the complainant is of the opinion that the behaviour or service provided was unsatisfactory. A conventional complaint in the market in terms of the above often relates to a promised return not materialising.

- A dispute related to CFD’s or the trading platform: This relates to the product (CFD’s), its platform or structure.

As an example; “I tried to trade last night, the system was offline and I lost money”

In resolving these complaints and/or disputes, we may elect to issue the client with a compensation payment or a goodwill payment. Alternatively, we may award the client/complainant with damages in the form of returning the client to the position he/she would have been in had the incident not occurred.

3. HOW TO RAISE QUERIES

QuickTrade is a client-centric business, focussing on the satisfaction of clients as a matter of priority. CFD trading is precarious by its nature, therefore, we aim to not burden our clients further by providing great service, transparent processes and ensuring quality service delivery. It is for these aforementioned reasons that we have implemented a dedicated support team who are continuously at the service of our current and potential clients. The team will attend to any queries raised by clients as well as assist with any issues they may experience.

5. HOW TO RAISE DISPUTES

Our complaints resolution process is intended to provide for the fair and effective resolution of complaints/disputes. The periods set out in this procedure will be adhered to as strictly as possible but may be varied only in exceptional circumstances.

The Ombud's jurisdiction in dispute resolution processes is primarily to ensure that clients and customers are treated fairly and our conduct is acceptable and fall within the ambit of the law. Occasionally, due to the nature of our business, disputes arise despite having been treated fairly. (e.g. a power cut resulting in a loss)

The following step by step guideline sets out the procedures we adopt and demonstrates how a complaint/dispute will be dealt with, once we have received such:

1. A dispute must be reduced to writing and sent to complaints@quicktrade.co.za
2. Your dispute should at least contain the following information:
 - 2.1 Name, surname and contact details;
 - 2.2 A complete description of the dispute as well as the date on which the financial service which led to the complaint occurred;
 - 2.3 The name of the person who furnished the financial advice or rendered the intermediary service that led to the complaint if available; and
 - 2.4 The client's preferred method of communication regarding the said complaint.
 - 2.5 Please attach as much evidence as possible (refer to conversations or attach any correspondence received)
3. Please attach evidence if available (refer to conversations or attach any correspondence you may have).
4. We will acknowledge your dispute within 24 hours.
5. The dispute will be investigated and the preliminary findings thereof will be communicated to the client within 3 business days from the date of receipt of the dispute. The client will always be furnished with reasons as required by legislation.
6. QuickTrade will offer the client the best resolution possible. Where we were at fault, we shall always endeavour to resolve the situation within 5 business days of receiving the dispute.
7. The client will receive written confirmation, once the matter is resolved - whereby we either offer a compensation/goodwill payment or we will reject the dispute and close the file.
8. Should the client be dissatisfied with the results of your inquiry, he/she may escalate the matter to compliance@quicktrade.co.za
9. The client will receive written confirmation from our compliance department within a further 5 business days, whereby feedback on the matter will be provided - indicating further resolution or the intention to close the file.
